NUM. 2300

MONDAY, JUNE 27. 1743.

our last arriv'd the Mails from Holland, France, and Flanders.

Petersbourg, June 8.

H. E. Court hath receiv'd an Express from Abo, with an Account, that M. Nolcken, the second Swedish Plenipotentiary, was arrived there with the Ultimatum of that Nation, which, it was expected, would be rejected by our Ministers, as our Ultimatum was rejected by them; but then it is that General Romanoff has Orders to propose of Peace, which comes so near to those the demand, that it is believed that the Peace, or at the Preliminaries, will be speedily adjusted. There been a Sort of an Action between our Gallies under Command of General Keith, and those of Sweden under Admiral Falkengreen; but they only cannonaded other, so that nothing has happen'd of Consequence. Our Court has concluded a Treaty with that Dresden, on the same Terms which were stipulated the Reign of the late Emperors. General Lowendahl sent an Agent hither, to entreat the Czarina to grant his Dismission, on account, as some say, of his going into the Service of the King of Denmark; though others are positive that he is to command in Chief the Armies of the State of Venice.

Stockholm, June 19. The Election, which was to have been on Yesterday, is put off again at the Request of Peasants, who pretend, that unless the Prince Royal of Denmark is chosen, the Kingdom can never enjoy settled Peace. An Express arrived Yesterday from Copenhagen, the Contents of which were very studiously conceal'd, tho' the Dispatches he brought were immediately presented to the Senate, and by their Order communicated to the Diet. This Morning we understand that our Plenipotentiaries, in Conjunction with those of Russia, have made a Convention, by which the Terms of Peace are settled; and that a Cessation of Arms was to take Place the mean time. We are under some Apprehensions of a Civil War, since we find that the Heads of the Peasants have actually a Correspondence with Denmark, and that a great Body of Danish Troops is advancing from Norway towards our Frontiers. Instead of promoting, it must necessarily ruin the Prince of Denmark's Interest; for the Nobility seem to be now entirely united in favour of the Duke of Holstein-Gutin.

Lisbon, May 28. The King returned on Friday last, about Two in the Afternoon, to this Capital. His Majesty, while at the hot Baths, had two Fits of his Disemper, and the last was a very bad one. He is now at the Point of entering on a Forty Days Regimen, which, with the Assistance of a few simple Medicines, some foreign Physicians are of Opinion will complete his Cure. The Saltee Rovers have lately taken a Fishing Bark in sight of this Port, which makes a mighty Noise, and is like to create some Disturbances; the People taking very ill that no Care is taken to check these Depredations.

Madrid, June 11. His Catholick Majesty being informed, that some Disputes had arisen in the Army in Italy on Account of the Grandees refusing to give the Title of Highness, to the Duke of Modena who commands it, his Majesty had thereupon written to the Count de Gages, to inform him, That he was much surprized at this Scruple, since if the Duke was at his Court, or his Majesty had any Occasion to write to him, he should not make the least Difficulty on that Head. The Duke de Montemar caused a Memorial to be presented to his Majesty lately, wherein, after expressing his Concern at lying under the Royal Displeasure, he desir'd that his Pay and Appointments might be assign'd him on the Treasurer of Murcia, which was very readily granted him. Our Court has lately made a great Remittance to Paris; but with what View nobody can pretend to say.

Batiscum, June 23. The following Letter was written by the Queen of Hungary to M. Khevenhuller, on the Victory gained near Braunau.

Dear Count Khevenhuller,

You have heard, without doubt, with Plesure, the Satisfaction the News gave me, of the Defeat of the Enemy at Braunau. I attribute it principally to the Blessing of the Almighty on my just Cause of which we have had so many Instances. Nevertheless your Courage and Conduct hath contributed thereto. Our dear Prince Charles tells me, That he is not able sufficiently to testify, how much he owes to your Assistance on this Occasion, and on many others, which have offer'd since his coming to the Army. I would not therefore defer informing you, by this Letter, how much I am contented in this Respect; and, at the same time, I have charg'd Major-General Luchefy to assure you, that I consider this as a very considerable Addition to the Services you have already render'd to me and my Archducal House. So glorious a Beginning of the Campaign, gives me Reason to hope that it will be followed by Successes equally happy and remarkable. Your Judgment and Experience, which are so universally acknowledg'd, cannot but contribute to it more and more. I likewise make no manner of Doubt, that you will always assist, with the same Zeal, our dear Prince Charles, in whatever depends upon you and your Councils. In this Confidence I assure you of the Continuance of my Favour, and of my Royal Good-Will; and I pray God that he will have you, dear Count Khevenhuller, in his Holy and Worthy Protection.

Prague, May, 1743.

MARIA THERESA.

Our last Advices from Ingoldstadt say, That the French Army was on the Point of Decamping, in order to retire to Donawert; and that M. Broglie had not, at most, above 20,000 Men under his Command; so that his Retreat from Plaiding must have cost him, at the least, 5000 Men.

Brussels, July 2. On Sunday, about Eight in the Evening, arrived the Courier Moritz, whom his Highness the Duke d'Arenberg had dispatched from the Army, with the News of a complete Victory gained by the Army of the Allies, on the 27th, over the Troops of France. The Courier went instantly to the Palace of Count Coningegg-Erps, our Governor, to whom he deliver'd his Highness's Letter; which was soon after render'd publick, and ran thus.

June 28, 1743. 'I have the Honour to send your Excellency the Courier Moritz, in order to inform you, that the French having pass'd the Maine with two Bridges of Boats, which they establish'd at Seligenstadt, we obtained over them, near the Village of Derlingen, a complete Victory, the Extent of which will be render'd apparent by its Consequences. I am not able to give your Excellency any farther Account, having not hitherto receiv'd it. I had not the Satisfaction of remaining in the Field to the end of the Action, by reason of my being wounded. I have the Honour to be with the most tender and respectful Regard,

Your Excellency's, &c.

As soon as his Excellency had receiv'd these Dispatches, he went immediately to wait upon the Duchess d'Arenberg. While he was there, he order'd the News to be made Publick, by a General Discharge of our Artillery. Te Deum was afterwards sung with the greatest Solemnity, there was a triple Salvo from our Ramparts in the Evening, and at Night the Illuminations were so general, that the whole City seem'd to be on Fire.

Extract of a Private Letter from the Camp of the Allies, dated June 28.

'Yesterday we gave Battle to the French. We have beat them, and have taken several Generals, and other Officers of Distinction. We are Masters of four Kettle-drums, and as many Standards. Their Loss is very considerable. They cannonaded us four Hours before the Battle began, which lasted two. The Duke de Arenberg received a Musquet-thor, but his Wound is not dangerous; we hope he will be soon abroad again. I am well, and very much Yours, &c.

Extract from the Paris Alman.

Paris, July 3. 'The King has given Orders for augmenting all the Cavalry and Dragoons with a Squadron each Regiment, which will make about 8000 Horse. He has sent the great Red Ribband to the Marquis du Chastelet, who serves in the Army in Bavaria, and has granted him a Pension of 7000 Livres.

The Emperor has quitted Augsborg, and is retired to Ulm, an Imperial City of Swabia, situate on the Danube.

Donawert, June 23. M. Broglie seeing the Danger to which the Troops under his Order were exposed in the Camp under Ingoldstadt, caused on the 20th of this Month, three Bridges to be thrown over the Danube, over which he march'd all his Army, and arriv'd here the 23d, without meeting with any Opposition. He is quite disengag'd from the Enemy at present, and has Plenty of all Things. A Report runs, That after a short Stay here, our Army will continue its March towards the Rhine.

The Prince of Conti will march with the Reserve before, and M. Broglie, leaving 2000 Men in Ingoldstadt, under the Command of Lieutenant-General Grandville, will follow him.

A Report lies about, that Egra is surrender'd; but we do not know upon what Condition.

The little Skirmish that has happen'd on the Rhine between our Troops and the English, is look'd upon as the Beginning of Hostilities, and we expect very speedily the News of an Action.

Genoa, June 19. We hear no more of the Duchess of Modena's Departure. She has heard with incredible Concern that M. Trahan has sent a Body of Miquelets, who deferted from the Spanish Army, to live at Discretion, which is the same thing as to ruin and destroy, the Duchy of Massa Carrara. The Report revives, that the Princess, her Daughter, is to marry the Duke de Chartres.

The most Delightful Fragrant TINCTURE for the Breath, Teeth and Gums.

AT once using makes the BREATH most charmingly fine, sweet, and pleasant, the Teeth perfectly white, clean and beautiful, and is the most certain Cure for the Scurvy in the Gums in the World.
It infallibly preserves the Breath, Teeth and Gums in their utmost Beauty and Perfection, if they are no Ways disorder'd; and if they are, immediately rectifies all their Defects: In the same Minute it is used it makes the most offensive Breath smell incomparably fine and charming, and in a short Time so effectually cures, that a disagreeable Breath will not return.
It instantly makes the blackest and most foul Teeth extremely white and delicately beautiful; infallibly preserves them from decaying, and those a little decay'd from becoming worse; absolutely cures the Scurvy in the Gums, be it ever so inveterate, causing the Flesh to grow up to the Teeth again, when almost eaten quite away, and assuredly fastens loose Teeth to Admiration. It is to be used but a few Drops at a Time, is exceeding pleasant, and leaves a very grateful and delectable Flavour in the Mouth.
In a Word, for most delightfully performing, and quickly curing an ill-scented Breath, for immediately making the blackest Teeth most excellently white, certainly fastening them when loose, effectually preserving them from rotting or decaying, and infallibly curing the Scurvy in the Gums, it has not its Equal in the Universe, as all the Quality and principal Gentry, who use it acknowledge.
It is to be had only at Mr. Radford's Toyshop, at the 2nd and Crown against St. Clement's Church-yard in the Strand, at 3 s. 6 d. a Bottle, with Directions.
